TITLE I HELPS STUDENTS TEACHERS AND PARENTS

Title I is a federally funded program under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA). Through Title I, money is given to school districts around the country based on the number of low-income families in each district. Each district uses its Title I money for extra educational services for children most in need of educational help. The focus of the Title I program is on helping students meet the same high standards expected of all children.

Under the Title I legislation, schools and families form partnerships to help students who need support in meeting high academic standards. Congress has provided this financial assistance to qualifying school districts since 1964.

Families + Teachers = Child Success!

“Parents, students, and teachers plan together and set goals to work together for student success.”

PARENT ENGAGEMENT

In Title I, parents and teachers build a close, cooperative partnership. Parents also help to plan and review their school and district Title I program. Local involvement ensures that the program meets the needs of Title I students. Parents are encouraged to participate in Title I family events that support the joy of learning together.

Research shows that parent involvement is critical to student success and student achievement. Parents may ask to see the school-wide plan at any time.

Parents can positively impact their child's school success by being positively involved in their child's school experience in the following ways: (Marzano, 2003)

- Keep the lines of communication open
- Participate in the day to day running of the school such as working as a teacher assistant, guest reader or lecturer, or as a volunteer
- Get actively involved in the governance of your child's school and have a voice, so please join us during the needs assessment to develop a plan for your child's buildings.

TITLE I IS A PARTNERSHIP

Every district has a family involvement policy, which outlines the ways families can be involved in their child's Title I program.

The family, the school, and the student also develop a compact outlining role of each in the learning partnership. This shared responsibility increases the potential for student success.
